LLS 201 US Racial & Ethnic Politics

(same as AAS 201, AFRO 201, and PS 201)

Examines efforts by racial and ethnic communities to organize politically and by society to allocate resources based on race or ethnicity. Topical focus includes African Americans, Latinos, Asian Americans, Native Americans, and white ethnics. The primary goal of the course is to develop a more comprehensive understanding of racial and ethnic politics by identifying commonalities and differences among these groups and their relationship to the state.

(same as SOC 221)

General overview of international migration to the United States, using Latin American migration to the U.S., especially the Midwest, as the focal point. Topics discussed include the history of international migration to the United States, the relationship between the history and contemporary context, the development of U.S. immigration policy, the incorporation of Latino immigrants in U.S. society, and immigrant and community responses to migration. Prerequisite: LLS 100 or SOC 100.

LLS 230 Latina/o Genders & Sexualities (B)
(same as GWS 230)

Survey of major theories and debates surrounding the gendered and sexualized dimensions of the Latina/o experience in the United States. The course is comprised of three major units: Gender, Sexuality, and Sex. In these units, students will read about and discuss issues pertaining to femininity/marianismo, masculinity/machismo, family/familism, desire, sexual behavior, sex work, sexual and gendered violence, and gendered and sexualized representations in pop culture.

Topic: Deviant/Queer Bodies: Migration, the Border, and Making Home

This course examines the experiences of LGBTQ/Queer/Trans* Latina/o/xs in the U.S. We will discuss political and social identities, varying gender and sexual identities and expressions grounded in the narratives and experiences of LGBTQ Latina/o/xs. We will focus on how larger social structures and institutions police and shape the experiences of LGBTQ Latina/o/xs. We will be focusing on structures and sites including: the gender binary, the border, immigration policy, family, and community to understand how they intersect with LGBTQ Latina/o/x racial, sexual, gendered, and class identities. The goal of this course is to interrogate the ways that LGBTQ Latina/o/xs resist and thrive despite the current conditions created by racism, classism, sexism, xenophobia, homophobia, and transphobia. Furthermore, because Latina/o/xs are a heterogeneous population, we will explore how gendered and sexual experiences may be different for different groups within the LGBTQ Latina/o/x experience.
LLS 238 Latina/o Social Movements (C)
(same as HIST 292)
Focuses on the history and theory of Latina/o social movements. Topics include immigrant mobilizations, transnational organizing, agrarian and farm worker movements, political representation, feminisms and reproductive rights, environmental justice, labor and educational struggles, and urban social movements.

LLS 246 Gender & Sexuality in Latina/o Literature  *LA *US
(same as SPAN 246)
Examination of questions of gender, sexuality, and identity in contemporary Latina/Latino culture through a discussion of novels, performance pieces, essays and films. Spanish majors must complete writing assignments in Spanish.

Topic: Queer Latinx Feminisms

Let’s problematize what we mean by “feminism.” Let’s complicate ideas of who or what is the modern Latinx woman. From art, Latin Trap, literature, and film this is a course that brings together different versions of “feminism” through a queer Latinx lens. In this course we will intimately engage and extend the categories of body, race, gender, and sexuality through varying representations, narratives, and preconceived notions about the power of the Latinx femme in literary and artistic production in our contemporary present. We still study works by Gloria Anzaldúa, Becky G, Cardi B, Angie Cruz, Junot Díaz, Rita Indiana, Alicia Gaspar de Alba, including episodes and scenes from RuPaul’s Drag Race, Vida, Pose, among others. Our goal is to acquire familiarity with the main aesthetic, cultural, and political discourses of queerness and feminism in the formation of Latinidades in the Americas.

Critical, historical and theoretical exploration of Latino representations in U.S. film from the 1900s to the present. Examination of cinematic representations as well as the social, political, and cultural context in which those representations are produced. The focus is on Mexican American and Puerto Rican images, but Hollywood’s treatment of other Latino communities and ethnic groups will be discussed. Students will be required to attend weekly movie screenings.

Topic: The Bronze Screen: Focus on Disney

How does the mouse represent Latinas/os/xs? This class will explore Disney’s approach to Latinidad through contemporary movies and television (High School Musical, Elena of Avalor, Coco, etc.) from a Media Studies perspective that includes production, audiences, and representation.

The Wednesday 7:00-9:00pm meeting time is for weekly screenings of the films from the course.

LLS 365 Chicana/Latina Autobiography, Memoir, Testimonio (A)

(meets with GWS 395)

Focuses on how Chicanas/Latinas describe their own experiences and how they both understand and negotiate their sense of self, and centers on the new crop of memoir and autobiography, as represented in the most recent texts by well-established Chicana writers, such as Sandra Cisneros, Gloria Anzaldúa and Ana Castillo. We will also discuss the professionalization of the field of Latina/Latino Studies in the work of Tey Diana Rebolledo. Additionally, students will study the writing of self with a focus on gender, sexuality, and genre.
LLS 387 Race, Gender and the Body (B)
(same as SOC 387)
Focuses generally on the relation between power and the body. In western culture, the body is typically thought of as a natural, biological entity. However, as a number of social theorists have pointed out, the body can never be reduced to mere biology. It is also always a product of culture and therefore necessarily implicated in relations of dominance and subordination. Using this framework, the class is specifically concerned with how raced, gendered, and sexed bodies have been imagined in US culture (as abnormal, diseased, criminal, etc.) and with how such bodies have been rendered objects of surveillance, discipline, and regulation.

Topic: Bodies on the Line
Focuses generally on the relation between power and the body. The course begins with the proposition that all politics are a politics of the body. We will therefore set out to examine how bodies are framed and deployed for political functions, how they circulate or are constrained, and how people choose to put their own bodies on the line as testimony of their political investments. We will further interrogate how these political bodies create physical vocabularies of movement as they negotiate identities, display themselves or are displayed for visual consumption, protest social inequalities, and experience pain/injury--even death.
